

Pamela M. Pearson (Pam), J.D.

Pam is an attorney and political activist living in the Charlotte, NC area.

She is the current Chair of the Board of Directors for Planned Parenthood South Atlantic, a four state affiliate that has health centers in North Carolina, South Carolina, West Virginia and Virginia.

She was on the Board of Directors of Lillian's List for six years which renewed her passion for politics, particularly the cause of electing progressive women.

She recruited and co-managed the 2014 campaign for Natasha Marcus in her initial bid to turn Thom Tillis' NC House 98 seat blue, and more recently supported Natasha's 2018 successful bid for Senate 41, as well as Christy Clark's successful run for NC House 98.

Pam also serves on the Board of Women Executives for Community Service, a non-profit that provides scholarships, mentors and other support to non-traditional women students at five Charlotte-area colleges and universities.

In her day job, she leads a litigation team at a major financial institution, providing legal counsel and support to a variety of lines of business. She is married to John Akin, a Climate Reality Leader and co-founder of the Charlotte Chapter of the Climate Reality Project.
